Motion Picture News

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

Florence Turner in "Doorsteps," Moving Picture Classic, Pastime Today and Tomorrow.

Few roles have been written for great stars that give the excellent opportunity for powerful acting and clever versatility offered by the part of Doorsteps in Henry Edwards' celebrated play of that name. The absorbing story of the little boarding house slave who becomes an actress and through adversity falls back once more to poverty and menial labor, gives Florence Turner a rare chance to show the marvelous powers of dramatic expression that have placed her among the really great artists of her time. A surprising development in the intensely interesting plot of the drama gives the fallen idol of the stage one last desperate chance to again appear behind the footlights. She cleverly wins an interview with a prominent theatrical manager and using her knowledge of the underworld, steals his watch to show him she can qualify for the part of a pick-pocket in a big drama about to be produced. She is mistaken for a thief but is destined later, to win back fame and fortune for herself as well as prosperity and recognition for the author of the play, who is the same noble character who shared her poverty and won her love in the old actors' boarding house in which the story opens.

In the four distinct character drawings called for by this exceptional production, Florence Turner does some of the most remarkable acting ever seen upon the screen and is supported by a splendidly balanced cast of notable players. In addition a clever comedy, Deep Sea Liars, with Ben Turpin.

La France Brothers in their Garden of Equilibrium Novelties, are a headline act on any bill. The agile brothers perform while balancing themselves on their heads in a manner that appears to render pedal equipment unnecessary.

Baron De Malusene gives the first of her real stories of the great battles of the western front told by a soldier who took part in them. This is no rabid pro-ally lecture but a plain statement of what the lieutenant has seen with his own eyes. Don't fail to hear and see this show.

At the Cosy.

"Fate's Boomerang," the latest World Film release in which Mollie King is the featured star, will be the attraction at the Cosy theater on Tuesday and Wednesday. It is in five parts and deals with the trials of a man desperately in love with his wife, who is sent to supervise the building of a railroad in the western mountains. His wife, fond of society life, refuses to leave her life of pleasure for the open and restricted life of the forests, only to find later, that her mother instincts are stronger than her desire for gaiety, but alas! it is too late. The husband is now growing with the railroad, getting bigger and bigger each day. Having met the little mother of the hills, mated with her and in her finds the true love that his heart has sought for so long. It is staged in a wonderful scenic atmosphere and is story is bound to please all lovers of strong and strange romance.

BESSIE BARRISCALE IN NEW PLAY BY GARDNER SULLIVAN

Triangle Star's Latest Vehicle Called "The Payment" and Gives Actress Excellent Dramatic Opportunities. Bessie Barriscale, whose most recent appearance on the Triangle program was made in "The Sorrows of Love," soon will be offered a star in a compelling drama of sacrifice entitled "The Payment." This is a story from that seemingly exhaustless fount of literary gems, C. Gardner Sullivan, and is declared to be among his strongest works.

"The Payment" deals with the career of Phyllis Page, the ambitious daughter of a small-town mill-worker, and aims its blow at the disloyalty of married men who bargain with struggling girls. It is an arraignment not of the men alone, but of the girls themselves who sacrifice their honor for the attainment of earthly success. Phyllis Page, in the story, reaps a reward from her sacrifice—she attains distinction as a portrait painter—but when true love does come she finds it obstructed by memories of the past. "No matter how small the price demanded for wrong-doing, it is too high!" Such is the moral of Sullivan's drama.

In the role of Phyllis Page, Miss Barriscale, it is said, is at her best. The part is one that afforded her wonderful opportunities, during its interpretation, and enabled her to rise to great emotional heights. Her performance commands attention from the start and holds it to the finish. Supporting Miss Barriscale are to be seen Charles Miller, Katherine Kirkwood, William Desmond, Thomas S. Gulse and Gertrude Claire. Each, it is said, has contributed largely to the excellence of the play. The production was directed by Raymond B. West and photographed by J. D. Herriot while the technical details were in charge of Robert Brunton.

Prineville held its second election on the question of voting $100,000 in bonds to construct a railroad from the main line of the Oregon Trunk into this city. The bonds carried 33 1/3 to 1.

Last spring an election was held at which only one vote was cast against the proposition, but because of irregularities in the election proceedings, a second one was called. It had been hoped that the one opponent could be converted, but he has evaded discovery. The people are jubilant and a railroad now seems assured.
